

Now that the last week before Lent has | hart, who has been visiting Miss McBride come, social matters and particularly entertainments in the several churches are many. The good old brothers and sisters of a half a century ago would be shocked to see some of the "shows" that take place in the parlors of the houses of worship in these days. No new church that is a church is complete without kitchen arrangements, and the stove, tables and dishes are a part of the church furnishings. The people of to-day are broader than they were then and the religion is made a pleasant thing, instead of a long face, dismal affectation. The Quaker churches are the last to give anything like an entertainment. Many of the old-time straightlaced ways of former years cling to the colored people. Other than this it seems that almost any kind of an entertainment that will call the people to the church building instead of to some other place of amusement is considered perfectly legitimate.

The week before Lent in Washington the social center is the gayest of the season. Most people pay some attention to Lent, even if they are not members of liturgical churches. When Lent comes the dissipations are less. This week there will be gay times in the capital. Likewise Indianapolis will have a number of brilliant social events. The annual Propylaeum party Monday evening will lead and will be followed by a number of entertainments. The people of this city are busy always, whethpeople of this city are busy always, whether there is much going on socially or not, for the club life keeps them going, and when there are parties and receptions they have to be crowded in between club meet-who has not yet received invitations may get them of the president or the secretary. Mr. John Ortengren, a baritone, of Chicago, will give a recital, assisted by a number of the Musicale's members in instrumental selections. The French Club met Tuesday evening at the residence of Professor Juillet, on

West Meridian street. Two new members were received, Mr. Ed Elder and Miss S. Barber. Miss Heywood opened the meeting with a piano solo, "La Premiere Mazourka," Saint-Saeus. Mr. Cobb recited. The subject for the evening was "The Parlor Lamp," Mr. Day recited "A Country Postmaster and his Literary Club," a very amusing story. Miss Heywood read "A Lesson in Politeness," translated from Dean Swift. Professor Juillet read a droll chapter from Pickwick Papers, "Pick-wick's Ride."

The party to be given at the Propylaeum, to-morrow evening, by the stockholders, will be one of the prettiest that they have ever given. The decorations will be out of the ordinary. In the west parlor, where the ladies will be ready to receive the guests, the walls will be covered with Oriental tapestries, and odd lamps, and queer articles peculiar to the far East will be used. The east parlor will be light and attractive with yellow and white hangings and the assembly hall will be arranged with handsome flags. Two figures will be danced in the cotilion, the football and the ball of flowers. The members who will act as patronesses are Mrs. Solomon Claypool, Mrs. Myla Ritzinger, Mrs. Henry Severin, Mrs. B. B. Peck, Mrs. Albert Gall, Mrs. George C. Hitt, Mrs. George T. Ev-ans, Mrs. M. J. Osgood and Mrs. Henry Jameson. Disposition has been made of a large number of tickets.
